The combined choirs of Liberty will provide music, with Mr. Pulley bringing solos. The nursery will be maintained throughout the week to care for the babies.

Wednesday night, April 3, at 8:00 the Hampden-Sydney Glee Club will give a community-wide concert at Liberty.

Seventh-day Adventist Church
Thirteenth Sabbath One flow off, spring March 28, 1964. Will Go to the South American Division

1. To Establish a Boarding Academy for the Youth of North Brazil.

2. To Better Equip our Medical Launches and Improve our Medical Work in the North Brazil Union.

The fleet of medical launches on the rivers of South America has become an established feature of missionary work in that great land. Thousands of people along the Amazon and its tributaries lack the contact of the mission launch as their only hope of receiving help for their many physical afflictions. It is also the only hope for bearing the printed or the launch workers preach and teach as well as heal.

A part of the overflow will be used to help equip these launches better, so that they may do an even greater work than in the past.

The rest of the offering will be used in establishing a boarding academy in the North Brazil Union, eighteen miles from the city of Belem at the mouth of the Amazon River, where a few years ago overflow funds helped to establish a mission hospital.

The South American Division is made up of eight countries— Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chili, Ecuador, Paraguay, Peru, and Uruguay. There are two principal languages spoken— Portuguese in Brazil and Spanish in the other countries.

Elder Maria Rosi, who brings us the preceding facts has served as Secretary of the Sabbath School and radio departments of since 1954.

7:00 p.m. — Ante-Communion followed by a short address
Sunday, March 29th—Easter
8:30 a.m. Holy Communion; celebrant, the Rev. R. E. Wilson of Farmville, assisted by the Rev. Jack Adams.

This service will be followed by a parish breakfast.

Collect for Good Friday: Almighty and everlasting God, by whose Spirit the whole body of the Church is governed and sanctified; Receive our supplications and prayers, which we offer before thee for all estates of men in their several callings; and every member of the same, in his vocation and ministry may truly and godly serve thee; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

Collect for Easter: Almighty God, who through thine only-begotten Son Jesus Christ hast overcome death, and opened unto us the gate of everlasting life: We humbly beseech thee that, as by thy special grace preventing us thou dost put into our minds good desires, so by thy continual help we may bring the same to good effect; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

Untrue Story — Painful Decision

by David Snow, Red Cross Field Representative

When I was stationed at Port Devens, Massachusetts, last year with the Red Cross, a Sergeant called me on the phone. He was greatly disturbed because one of his men waiting to donate blood at the Red Cross bloodmobile told a group of friends that Red Cross sells the blood it collects. Questioned about it, he told them that his aunt needed two pints of blood and that the Red Cross had charged her over $25.00 a pint for it.

I asked the Sergeant to have the man who made the statement come to my office. In a short while he came in. He repeated the story. I told him that Red Cross never charges for blood or any other service, but he stuck with his story.

I asked his aunt's name and address and told him I was going to phone the Red Cross chapter where his aunt lives and ask them to check on it — that if some hospital was charging $25 for Red Cross blood, the Red Cross would do something to put a stop to it.

The man told me I didn't have to make that call. He said, "I lied." He explained that everyone has a story about the Red Cross charging for things, so he wanted to have one, too. I told him he must tell the men in his unit that he made the story up. He started to cry—said that his commanding officer likes the Red Cross and would count mental him for this. A court martial, he added, would cause him to lose his Pfc stripe and reduce his pay. He said he was married, living in an apartment near the post and was just barely able to make ends meet.

Being an employee of the Red Cross I had a responsibility toward the organization. If I let this go there would be another untrue rumor about the Red Cross circulating among the people. After thinking it over, I decided to do nothing, because I also had the responsibility to help servicemen by virtue of my being on a military installation. I couldn't do anything to hurt this man and his family.

The Red Cross sells nothing, except first aid books, home nursing books and swimming patches. All of its services are free. On military bases, even a first aid book is free if a man is taking a Red Cross first aid course.

On the wall of every Red Cross office on military bases there is a sign that reads, "The services and supplies of the American Red Cross are a gift from the American people and are never sold."

"If anyone asks you to pay for any Red Cross supplies or services, report this to the nearest Red Cross office or your commanding officer."

The only thing that Red Cross did sell during World War II was food and lodging in Europe, and this was done at the request of the Secretary of War, Henry L. Stimson.

Injures Hand

Charles L. Elliott, employed by Virginia Gear and Machine Co. in Lynchburg, injured his hand at work Monday evening. He was treated at a Lynchburg hospital and then released.

More children and adults with physical handicaps are rehabilitated today than ever before, according to the Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults, which is conducting its Easter Seal campaign here March 1 to March 29, Easter Sunday.

Minister Sparked Interest In Local High School

PART III — In this third and final installment on a history of the local school system Miss Julia Asher, Appomattox High School Librarian and author of the history, traces school development from 1890 to the present.

In the first installment Miss Asher traced the beginnings of public schools from 1870. In the second installment she noted textbooks used and the dedication of the school board and early teachers and superintendents who labored under trying conditions.

By 1890 some interest in the "propriety of establishing a high school" through the combined efforts of all the districts manifested itself. In 1892 Rev. W. S. Royall, a progressive Baptist minister, "on behalf of self and others presented a petition for the establishment of a high school at Appomattox Depot." This matter was referred to a committee made up of clerks of the three districts. A year later after the committee reported that no aid could be obtained from citizens of the village, the committee was discharged. Mr. J. K. Hannah, a member of the school and later superintendent of schools in 1894, "moved that the funds (which were ordered by the Board of Supervisors be used in the establishment of a graded school either at the Old Court House or Appomattox Depot) be used in building a high school at the new courthouse.' Each of the three districts appropriated $100 toward the project. Clerks of the three boards were appointed a committee to submit plans for the building. July 4, 1895, saw the "board now

Chevrolet will go to any length to make you happy

Things have changed a lot since a Chevy was only a Chevy. Especially your ideas of what you want a Chevy to be.

So now you have the Jet-smooth Chevrolet—17½ feet of pure luxury, bumper to bumper. The size makes it a luxury car. But not the price.

Or you can choose the thrifty Chevy II, a 15½-foot family car with all kinds of passenger and luggage space.

This year, your choice might be the new 16-foot-plus Chevelle, sized to fit nicely between Chevrolet and Chevy II (and between parking meters, with five whole feet to spare).

Then, too, there's the sporty 15-foot Corvair, so right for so many people (you girls, in particular) that we've never touched an inch of it. And finally, Corvette—still 14⅓ feet and still too much for any true sports-car lover to say no to.

The long and short of it is, you don't have to go to any length to find exactly the kind of car you want. Just see the five different lines of cars at your Chevrolet dealer's.
